12 Points in Code

The final form of the code is as

1. The minister worthy of his calling will recognize that he is the ambassador of Christ to his fellowmen: he will, therefore, evidence that spirit at all times to all people, whether they be his friends or his enemies.
2. The minister worthy of his calling will remember that he is reaping where another has sown; therefore, he will be thoughtful of the memory of the one into the fruits of whose labors he has entered, and will not be peevish when others praise his predeces-sor in his presence.

3. The minister worthy of his calling will recognize that as a leader of his people it is his duty to reserve sufficient time for serious study in order to apprehend thoroughly his message, to keep abreast of current thought, and to develop his intellectual and spiritual capacities.

4. The minister worthy of his calling will be true to his task. which is "not to steal sheep, but to feed them."

5. The minister worthy of his calling will spend himself in preaching the Gospel, realizing that however profitable afternot fill the House of God with sinners seeking repentance.

6. The minister worthy of his calling will spend in service for Christ every waking hour, eschewing sloth and laziness as poison deadly to the soul, leaving the gains of commercialism, ex-cept when such side occupations are necessary to the fulfillment of his ministry.

7. The minister worthy of his calling will be honest in his sermon preparation, in his pulpit speech, in his pastoral relations, and in discharging his fi-nancial obligations; and he will be honorable in his dealings with every church.

8. The minister worthy of his calling will exalt the spirit of his calling not only in his public speech, but also in his home and in his friendly fellowship with his ministerial brethren. 9. The minister worthy of his calling will recognize his responsibility to the community is that of a citizen; he will, therefore, be faithful to his public obliga-tions, responding to reasonable requests for assistance in community work, and as a member of the kingdom of God will recognize his responsibility to co-operate in the world-wide program of Christ. 10 The minister worthy of his calling will not apeal to, or exploit the prejudices of his people; rather will be seek to eradicate thme by speaking the truth in

11. The minister worthy of his calling will treat his successor as he would have his predecessor treat him; therefore, if the Lord calls him to a new field he will go and will not return to be a hindrance to his successor.

12. The minister worthy of his calling will be careful not to bear false witness egainst a brother minister and if his brother be overtaken by any fault will seek to restore in the spirit of meekness considering himself lest he also be tempted; and will whenever necessary, in the spirit of love, bear true witness against a ministerial brother guilty against moral turpitude, and if he himself has proved unworthy of his calling, of his accord leave
